Colleen Mooney was born and raised in Minnesota and is one of seven children...ya you betcha! Having her own built-in sports team, as well as horse back riding, ice skating and regular tree climbing, her schooling took her to the U of MN where she earned a B.A. in Psychology. Moving on to Chicago to work and pursue acting, she trained at the Second City Training Center, The Acting Studio and Green Shirt Studio. After a few stage productions, she realized her love is really for the screen and she quickly moved into working on sets like Chicago P.D. (Mariska Hargitay stand-in), Empire, Shameless, and with up and coming directors, such as Chinonye Chukwu (TILL & Clemency). On her own, she booked over 40 lead and supporting roles in feature and short Indie Films throughout Chicago, and upon moving to the Southwest booked her first co-star role opposite Uma Thurman and Tony Goldwyn in Netflix's, Chambers.
